

[illegible]

largest amount of good may be done by it. Miss Martineau suggests Mrs Ann Ware, of Cambridge, the Editor of the Examiner. She thinks, she states in a letter to me, that he would do her duty faithfully in regard to it, and give it a place in the periodical which he conducts. Your advice in this particular would be of great service to us, and I presume you have given no thought of your knowledge in relation to it, in your reply to her inquiries. Miss Martineau desires me to convey to you her respects, and to assure you she would have been most happy to see you if you could have visited her neighborhood.

I have enclosed some letters which I hope it will not be troubling you to send L. Delia - My letter to the Dispensary relates to Antislavery publications. I want to get some information of the Abolition movement for publication here. There is a lamentable want of information among us on this subject. The letter to Webster is on the subject of the Ministry at large.

Should you see him, perhaps you would be good enough to tell him how glad we should be to establish a regular correspondence with our British friends on this subject.

We have had a sad and sudden bereavement in poor Mr. Atton's sudden death. He was in his own locality & in preparation, and for many years I feel that a friend & some whose place can never be supplied. I am yours bring upon a Memorial of him, which you see in the Repository, you will find in the next number - His papers are committed to my care I his widow and in conjunction with another friend I shall bring out a volume of his If you could help me in procuring subscribers I should feel greatly obliged, and you will be aiding the fatherless and the widows -

If you are not too busy to do so, I should be glad to give you a line before you leave our shores in front of me how you are - Our correspondence must not cease after your return - mind that! - I shall expect to hear from you when you get home, and will not prove an ungrateful correspondent.

I have just completed the letter to the churches on the subject of the "Conference" - My brother of the Committee appointed to prepare it with me has signed it, and it is now in press - I shall send you a copy - Could not

Will you have the goodness to direct the letter to Wendell Phillips - Boston which is not addressed to you - I do not know whether you are in the habit of your country of giving persons the designation of Esq, in the walk of life, and as I am anxious to do what I presume you will perhaps oblige me by placing his address - the letter is in the right style -

Rev. Wm. James

Paid.

For the

Rev S. J. May

care of S. A. Goodard, Esq

Birmingham.

If Mr May
has left please forward it to Liverpool

